AN ACTIVE PHYSIOLOGICAL SHAPE.

PhysioForma® is the anatomical and functional design exclusive to Chicco pacifiers, developed to correctly promote and stimulate the mouth's vital functions during nonnutritive sucking by maintaining the tongue's physiological posture high against the palate.

A thin, concave shape that points upwards:

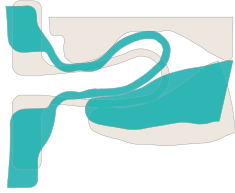

leaves room for the natural position of the tongue.

Lateral curves:

evenly distributes tongue pressure across the palate, allowing it to form correctly.

Special tiny ridges:

mimic the natural ridges of the palate, and serve as a point of reference to guide the tongue into the correct position.

A physiological shape based on the shape of the baby's mouth

Studying the size and anatomy of soothers of different shapes has shown that:

- the PhysioForma® soother adheres perfectly to the palate and positions the tongue forward and upward resulting in the physiological opening of the respiratory tract
- the classic soother doesn't adhere perfectly to the palate and the tongue is positioned lower creating a non-physiological condition.

TRAINS ALL THE MOUTH VITAL FUNCTIONS

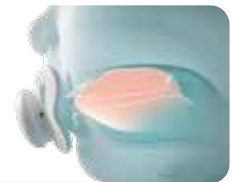

BREATHING

The soother must have a shape that guarantees the natural position of the tongue up and forward to enlarge the palate and ensure proper retro-lingual space for the physiological passage of air.

The geometry of PhysioForma, positioned on the palatal arch (hard palate), stimulates the non nutritive sucking reflex. The soft silicone material ensures correct muscle mobility.

SUCKING

SWALLOWING

The pacifier should have characteristics such as to stimulate as much as possible a vertical movement of the tongue towards the palate to favor the natural transition from infantile to mature swallowing.

CHEWING

The geometry of the soother must promote proper development of the perioral muscles and a physiological widening of the palate as a necessary condition for the change and correct alignment of the teeth.

PHONATING

The pacifier must have morphological characteristics aimed at building a good intraoral space, thanks to the position of the tongue, the correct position of the teeth and the mobility of the tongue itself.

IT ALL BEGINS IN THEIR MOUTH.
IT ALL BEGINS WITH PHYSIOFORMA®.

The anatomical and functional design of Chicco PhysioForma® pacifiers supports the correct growth of maxillary bones and the development of the oral muscle system. On top of that, it trains all the mouth's vital functions for healthy physiological growth.

A SINGLE SHAPE WITH LOTS OF VARIETY.

NATURAL sensation

AUTHENTIC LOVE FOR THE SKIN

Chicco Natural Sensation is the cosmetic line studied to follow baby's skin natural development process, as in mother's belly. All formulas are inspired by the vernix caseosa composition, the natural protection during pregnancy, to cleanse, protect and nourish his skin, containing only what he needs. An Authentic way to "take care", approved by dermatologists & pediatricians and that Chicco has learned from nature.

New Natural Sensation's design has been thought to satisfy people desires and needs of positivity, well-being, natural and true emotions. A cute little bear inspires love and tenderness, conveys the emotions it feels and is portrayed during the typical situations that a little one experiences.

UNIQUE CHARACTERISTICS

0m+

At birth skin is naturally fragile and delicate.
There are three main differences compared to adult skin:

THINNER

The skin is thinner hence vulnerable and three-fold more permeable to foreign substances than in the adult.

DRYER

The skin produces a smaller quantity of lipid and the mechanism to regulate water balance is not yet fully developed so the skin is dryer and dehydrated.

EASILY IRRITATED

At birth the less acidic pH of infant skin is less effective against possible irritations.

NATURAL PROTECTION

During the last quarter of pregnancy the skin is protected by the “vernix caseosa”, a thin white-yellowish layer made up of water, waxes and fatty substances with a protective function.
This natural protection peels off during the first days of life.

WHY CHOOSE:

NATURAL AND ACTIVE INGREDIENTS

Selected for their specific properties, with a high toxicological safety profile.

HIGH TESTED TOLERABILITY

Tested under medical supervision by well-known independent institutes to ascertain their tolerability and efficacy with very positive results.

EXTRA GENTLE FORMULAS

All formulas are studied respecting baby's delicate skin. Respects pH.

SUSTAINABLE PACKAGING

APPROVED BY DERMATOLOGISTS AND PAEDIATRICIANS

FEVER: WHAT IS IT?

It is the increase in body temperature above normal range (usually between 36.5° and 37.5°C - it differs from person to person). Body temperature is usually at its lowest in the morning and slightly higher during the afternoon; it also increases in some everyday situations, such as during intense physical effort.

DIGITAL MEASUREMENT

Axillary measurement. This is the method recommended for babies, also for newborns, and requires a specific thermometer. Skin temperature is influenced by external factors and the positioning of the instrument; therefore, you must ensure that the skin under the armpit is thoroughly dry and that you keep the baby still whilst taking the measurement.

Rectal measurement. Use a digital thermometer with a flexible probe. Lubricate the tip with vaseline or olive oil and whilst taking the temperature, try to hold the baby still. The rectal temperature is half a degree higher than the axillary readings on average.

INFRARED MEASUREMENT

Forehead measurement. To obtain reliable results, you must use this quick, handy tool accurately and correctly. Wait about 20-25 minutes to let the thermometer adapt to the ambient temperature. If you want to take the temperature again you should wait at least 5 minutes without holding the thermometer in your hand. Compare the ambient and baby's readings in order to evaluate the difference. Forehead measurement readings are half a degree higher than axillary readings on average.

Ear measurement. This kind of measurement requires an infrared thermometer. The sensor should be positioned in the ear channel: you will need to "stretch" the auricle. Remember that otitis or ear wax can alter values. Use a probe cover when using this type of thermometer. Ear measurement readings are half a degree higher than axillary readings on average.

DID YOU KNOW THAT ...

Different measuring sites will produce different readings: it is hard to make correlations which are significant and valid for each person with no bias. Therefore body temperature taken orally will be different from an underarm measurement and it is wrong to compare the two.

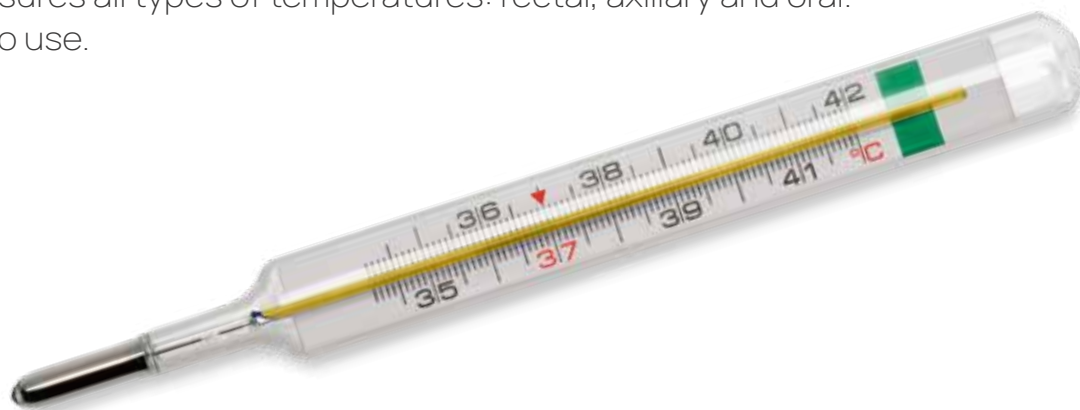

TYPE OF MEASUREMENT	NORMAL TEMPERATURE	FEVER TEMPERATURE
RECTAL	36,6 °C	38,0 °C
AXILLARY	34,7 °C	37,3 °C

ANTI DARKNESS LIGHTS

Some psychological studies have shown the importance of colours and their effects on children. Already in the first months of life, babies have a preference for certain colours, like red, blue and purple. Their colour contrast attract their attention most. The use of a flashing light encourages the child's active participation at any age. The recommended position for placing the light source is behind the baby's cot.

SWEET LIGHTS

A nightlight in the shape of a nice character to reassure your baby during sleeping time. Thanks to its soft material your baby can always take it with him and will love to observe the effects of the multicoloured light. USB cable included.

8 Coloured Lights

Rechargeable

During the first weeks of life, light plays an important role in synchronising the biological clock and, therefore, the new-born's sleep-wake rhythm. The alternation of light and darkness facilitates the settling of this rhythm. Keep baby's room dark and quiet during sleep time.

A soft, low intensity light, positioned out of the direct line of baby's sight, will reassure him if he wakes up.

BECOMING A MUM

During pregnancy and in the postpartum period, a mother's body changes continuously. As early as in the first months, it is advisable to wear maternity undergarments that conform to and comfortably help to support the abdomen and back. In these delicate phases of change, practicality and comfort are fundamental.
